

June 2010

Dear Friends,

Angela & Jaime, Jaime & Angela....WooHoo! You just have to be at Wonderful Weekend for Women (WWW), September 17 & 18, 2010 at Webster Conference Center (WCC), Salina, Kansas. Stand Out...God Knows Who I Am is this year's theme, with the scripture base of Psalm 139:1, "Oh Lord, You have searched me and you know me."

This conference exists for women to "spend time with God, experiencing personal and spiritual growth, challenging and equipping them to incorporate their Christian faith in their daily life, moving toward a lifestyle of missions, ministry, and evangelism", and of course, for just plain girl fun!

On the platform this year is Angela Thomas, acclaimed author and speaker, and Jaime Jamgochian, national recording artist and worship leader. Read all about them at www.angelathomas.com and www.jaimejam.com.

If you are a pastor in a church without a Women's Ministry or WMU Director, please give this packet to an influential woman in your church family. Ask her to promote and be the leader for your church group. Our prayer is to see women's lives transformed through worship, fellowship, and spiritual development.

Registration information is enclosed. Additional registration forms can be printed off online at www.KNwomen.com. Make frequent visits to this site for additional information concerning Wonderful Weekend for Women. Remember, registrations are final when payment is received. You will not want to wait until the last minute this year! We are planning for and expecting to max out Webster.

Please remember to encourage your women to register early and to pray for the women in your church and community who will attend this year's Wonderful Weekend for Women. Your encouragement for them to grow in their faith will strengthen your church in reaching your community and world for Christ.

Shiggaion!
